Rosebery Estate Covenant – Housing Code (delay) submission by City of Sydney Council

It is misleading (by omission) to reference some of the "Rosebery Covenant" restrictions, but ignore other elements and non compliance - in our view.

A copy of the Covenant should have been included for public consultation. It should have been more accurately summarised and presented in context.

Sourcing this document has delayed our input, but now we have it we make the following observations:

Most properties appear to breach this old Building and Materials Covenant.

Steel Roofing is used in most of the Estate, weatherboard also exists

2 storey buildings, units, shops exist, in addition to the new 2 storey homes under complying development

Additional Residences are common, whether created explicitly through strata plan or Torren's subdivision, Granny Flat addition or garage conversion (by stealth).

The Registrar General notes building and materials covenants are typically valid for only 12 years

A copy of the covenant and its elements are appended to this letter, along with a multitude of compliance anomalies.

If we are going to discuss Covenant restrictions, lets review it through clear lenses, in context.

Council selectively advocates height restrictive elements that delay better and more efficient use of our land. The Housing Code has already been delayed two years. Why?

Green Square has 50,000 additions within a postcode. Racecourse land has become high density apartment development with pressure on neighbouring public lands.

Where are the Manor Houses, Terraces and Duplexes? Where is the missing middle? Where do growing families, or shrinking families, live in this community?

Rosebery is not heritage listed – so why constrain it to century old design, heights, and material limitations?

The agenda to limit height, control and stylistically limit the estate has dominated and actively misdirected this public debate.

Let's have some transparency, certainty, responsibility and balanced debate in the differences between State and Council.

Let us use our properties efficiently and build with clarity / certainty. We abut 5 & 6 storey development, it makes sense to transition to low density at the edges.

Council are clearly seeking to stall a change they wish was under their control – again.

Covenant

Covenant B573206 was registered by the Town Planning Company of Australia (in liquidation) on 12 December 1927 for our land. A copy is attached.

Building materials, height and use restrictions impact the Rosebery Estate Deposited Plans 9717, 9858 and 7534.

Most residences in Rosebery appear to breach the 93 year old Covenant, as illustrated in the following local anomalies.

The Registrar General considers obsolete materials covenants removal after 12 years.

Restrictions

- Weatherboard and timber restricted
- One storey residence
- One residence per lot
- Brick or stone front elevation
- Tile or slate roof
- Set back minimum
- Min cost of 400 pounds

DPs 9717, 9858 and 7534 and successors in title.

Other covenants may affect other stages of the Rosebery Estate, though DPs references have changed significantly during subdivision, clouding its application.

Compliance

i. Timber or weatherboard restriction

Timber residences exist, despite the restriction, though brick is most commonly used.

Weatherboard cladding and fascia cladding is uncommon but does exist.

A weatherboard clad residence with a metal roof exists in Asquith Street, as appended.

ii. One Storey residences

Many 2 storey buildings have been constructed in Rosebery.

5 and 6 storey buildings abut low density residences to the North of the Rosebery Estate

2 and 4 storey buildings face Gardeners Rd.

Some are older shops and apartment and some new homes built under SEPP as complying development, as appended..

iii. One residence per lot

This restriction is regularly breached. Additional residences, attached dual occupancy residences, combined shops / residences, granny flats and second dwellings are common in the area. Garages are often used as second residences also, breaching by stealth.

Subdivision patterns have significantly changed over the 93 years to date. Deposited Plan sizes, shapes and descriptions vary significantly from the initial Plans in the covenant. These changes have added a significant number of dwellings to the original DPs, despite the restriction.

iv. Brick or Stone frontage

Buildings are typically brick, though a weatherboard residence is located within Asquith Street. Several use timber cladding to upper floors or as fascia cladding.

v. Tile or slate roofing

Metal roofing is very common in the area, typically for awnings, garages, house extensions and possibly replacement after significant storm damage in the late 90's. (see Satellite Image). Most houses breach this Covenant provision in the Rosebery Estate.

vi. 400 Pound min cost of dwelling

Clearly this element is outdated.

vii. Set back of 20 feet

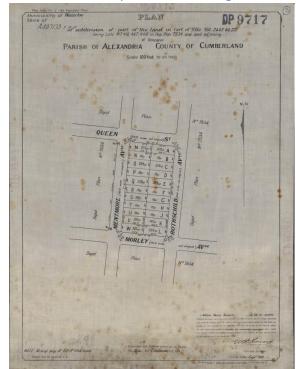

This limitation is highly value destructive if planning rules permit greater development in time. We note properties immediately North of this area are not set back.

viii. Lots 9717, 9858 and 7534 "benefit"

Many subdivisions and changes have occurred over nine decades.

We question the benefit any lots enjoy with these value destructive restrictions.

Subdivision and Deposited Plan changes

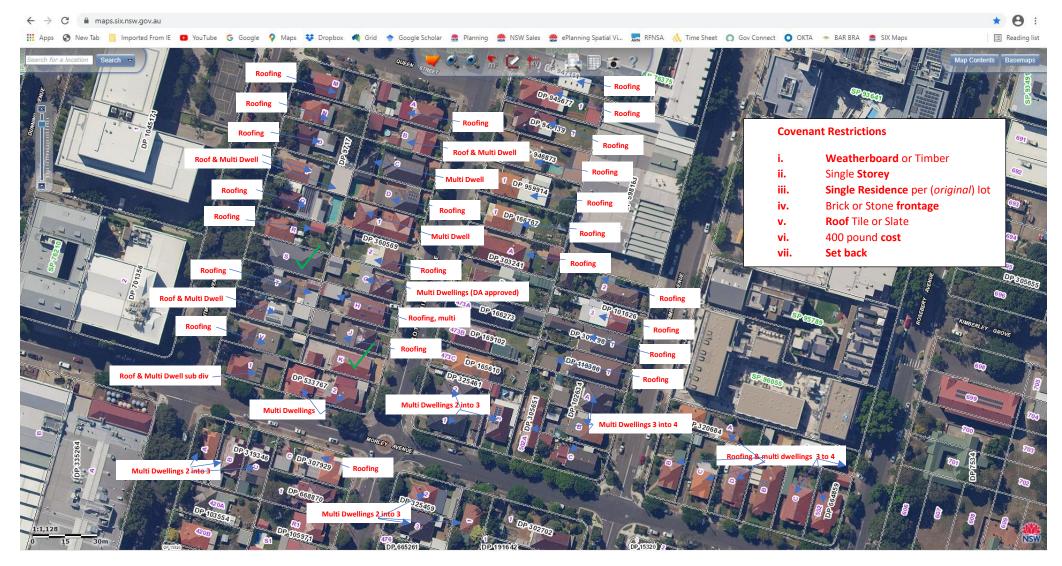

DPs noted in Covenant have been impacted by subdivision and title changes in many areas

Breaches of Covenant – Sample.

48 of 50 appear to breach.

Roofing commonly include metal sections, despite Covenant limitations.

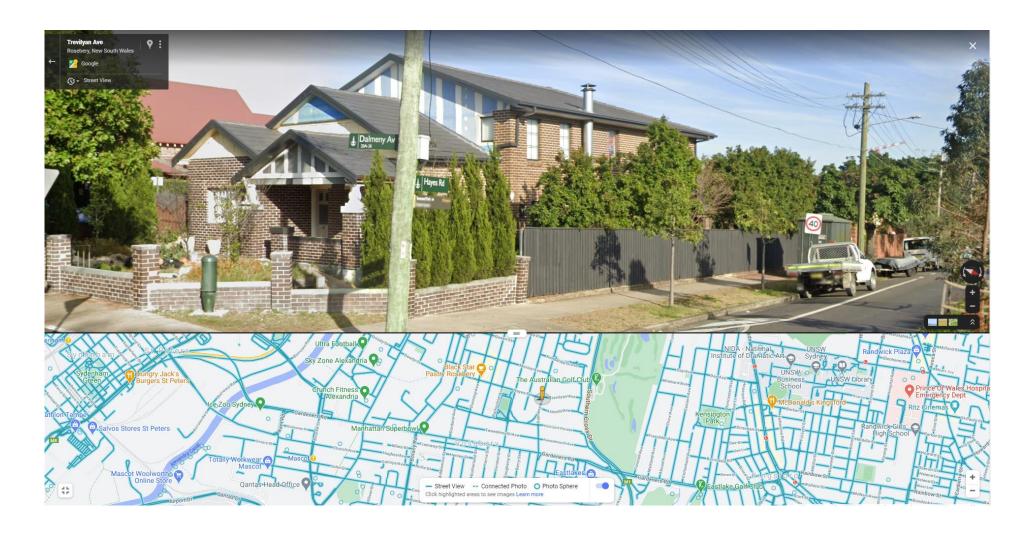

Height is greater than a single storey in numerous instances. Timber materials have also been used.

Residence additions are also common - explicitly through subdivision, strata division or by use with granny flats and building modification.

PROPOSED STATUTORY AMENDMENTS

Rosebery Estate 2 year temporary exclusion from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code

Explanation of Intended Effect

December 2020

NSW Department of Planning, Industry and Environment | dpie.nsw.gov.au

Rosebery Estate 2 year temporary exclusion from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code

Introduction

This Explanation of Intended Effect (EIE) has been prepared under section 3.30 of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 (EP&A Act). It recommends a temporary exclusion of the Rosebery Estate within the City of Sydney local government area from the Housing Code and Low Rise Housing Diversity Code.

The temporary exclusion will be achieved by including the Rosebery Estate area as identified on the Rosebery Estate Complying Development Land Map in Schedule 5 to State Environmental Planning Policy (Exempt and Complying Development Codes) 2008 (Codes SEPP) for a period of two years.

A copy of the Rosebery Estate Complying Development Land Map is attached to this paper.

This EIE is presented in two parts.

Part 1 - Background and context

This part provides an overview of the suburb of Rosebery and an explanation of the covenant which applies to this small suburb located in the City of Sydney local government area. -

Part 2 – Temporary inclusion of the Rosebery Estate in Schedule 5 of the Codes SEPP

This part explains the justification on the proposed temporary exclusion of the Rosebery Estate from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code.

1.1 The suburb of Rosebery

Rosebery is a garden suburb located in the City of Sydney local government area (see Figure 1). It was established in 1912 and retains its distinct subdivision and predominately single storey scale. Despite some unsympathetic alterations, Rosebery features a generally consistent built form and scale compromising mostly Federation, Californian Bungalow and other Inter-War housing styles.

In May 2008, the City of Sydney Council resolved that the Rosebery Estate are was not suitable for a heritage conservation area listing based on the findings of a heritage study prepared by Council. The report found that Rosebery was too highly modified to constitute a conservation area.

The Rosebery Estate has been identified as a special character area in the City of Sydney's planning controls since the South Sydney Development Control Plan 1997 and continues to be recognised in the Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012. The locality statement for the Rosebery Estate in the Sydney Development Control Plan 2012 identifies the special nature of Rosebery's subdivision pattern, setbacks and built form character and scale. Development applications received by Council within the Rosebery Estate are assessed against this locality statement to ensure new additions are sensitive and to protect the character of the area.

Rosebery Estate 2 year temporary exclusion from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code

1.2 The Rosebery Covenant

The Rosebery Covenant was imposed at the time of subdivision by the Town Planning Company of Australia, the former owner of the land, in 1914 and describes the type of housing that can be built within the Estate. This includes limiting the materials of the front façade to brick or stone, limiting the number of dwellings on a lot and requiring a dwelling to be limited to a single storey height.

Instances in the Rosebery Estate where the covenant has not been upheld have caused a degree of uncertainty about its continued application; this is because a covenant is valid until it ceases to be enforced.

Covenants can affect the planning system, but sit outside of the planning system, and can involve complex legal property law issues. To provide time to resolve issues with the application of the Rosebery Covenant and local character, a two year temporary exclusion from both the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Code is proposed for the Estate.

Part 2 – Temporary exclusion of the Rosebery Estate from the Housing Code and Low Rise Housing Code

An amendment to Schedule 5 to the Code SEPP (Land excluded from the Housing Code, Inland Code or Low Rise Housing Diversity Code) is proposed for the temporary exclusion of the Rosebery Estate from both the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code for a period of two years.

Both the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code sit within the Codes SEPP and allow two storey dwellings to be approved by a complying development certificate provided they meet all the planning controls in the Codes SEPP.

2.1 Justification on the proposed temporary exclusion

A two year temporary exclusion from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code will provide time for the inconsistent application of the covenant to be resolved. During this period, the Department will investigate the wording and impacts of clauses in environmental planning instruments that work to suspend covenants. The Department will also develop an education program for all stakeholders on the application of covenants in regard to complying development certificates.

Determining the validity of the Rosebery Covenant falls to the beneficiaries of the covenant, in this case it is the landowners in the Rosebery Estate.

Codes SEPP

Clause 1.20 of the Codes SEPP (Suspension of covenants, agreements and instruments) generally allows for covenants to be suspended, meaning that the covenant would no longer apply to a particular lot and development under the Codes SEPP may be carried out.

However, this does not apply in the case of a covenant imposed by an owner or former owner of the land (clause 1.20(2)(c)).

Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012

In the Rosebery Estate, clause 1.9A of the Sydney Local Environmental Plan 2012 turns off the covenant. This means that a homeowner can develop a two storey house in the Rosebery Estate via a development application with regard to development controls that reference the built form characteristics of the area and the built form principles of the covenant. There has been differing opinions on whether this clause also turns off the covenant for a complying development certificate.

The Council has previously requested an exemption for the Rosebery Estate from the Codes SEPP citing that development permitted under the Codes SEPP is unsympathetic and detrimental to the character of the Rosebery Estate. Council has indicated that residents in Rosebery have expressed their concern about housing being delivered through private certification and the impacts on the area.

Since the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code commenced in Council's local government area on 1 July 2020, six complying development certificates have been issued in the Rosebery Estate. Council have reported that there are at least 11 two storey developments that have been previously completed as complying development. This demonstrates the covenant is not being applied consistently, which has resulted in a high level of uncertainty amongst residents in the Rosebery Estate.

It is also considered that the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code will increase demand for two storey development in the form of dual occupancies and make future breaches of the covenant more likely. As the covenant is imposed by a former owner of the land, legal action around enforcement of the covenant must be undertaken by residents, not Council, which is both time consuming and costly.

A two year temporary exclusion of the Rosebery Estate from the Housing Code and the Low Rise Housing Diversity Code would provide certainty for land owners while the validity of the covenant is determined. It also provides time for the Department to review how covenants interact with environmental planning instruments, and develop education materials for certifiers, landowners and the community.

Saving and transitional provisions

It is proposed that an application for a complying development certificate that has been made but not finally determined before the commencement of this Policy must be determined as if this Policy had not commenced.
